Departure for Yolin Canyon or the Bearded Vulture Valley (33 km/21 miles, 2 hours) in Gobi Gurvansaikhan National Park. We will explore on foot (round trip)

Yolin Canyon or Vulture Gorge, crossing a small stream. Located in Gobi Gurvansaikhan National Park, established in 1993, it covers approximately 27,000 km² and is the largest national park in Mongolia. Yolyn Am (Mongolian: Ёлын Ам, Lammergeier Valley) is a deep, narrow gorge in the Gurvan Saikhan Mountains of southern Mongolia. The valley is named after Lammergeier, which is called Yol in Mongolian. The bearded vulture is an Old-World vulture, so the name is often translated as Valley of the Vultures or Valley of the Eagles. The valley is located within the Gobi Gurvansaikhan National Park. Yolyn Am lies in the Zuun Saikhanii Nuruu (Eastern Beauty) subrange of the Gurvan Saikhan Mountains. The area, as part of the Gobi Desert, receives little precipitation. However, Yolyn Am is notable for its deep ice field. The ice field reaches several meters in thickness at the end of winter and is several kilometers long. In earlier years, it remained year-round, but the modern ice field tends to disappear by September. There is a small museum exhibiting dinosaur eggs, some bones, and taxidermied birds and leopards.

Here you will have the opportunity to hike in the Gobi Valley, enjoying its breathtaking scenery. Once at Yolin Canyon, we will hike through the valley, which narrows into a gorge at the bottom of which flows a torrent, frozen for most of the year until early July, creating one of the most spectacular landscapes in the Gobi.

If we are lucky, we may spot bearded vultures, other birds, and small rodents.

Horses can be rented here with local guides to cross the canyon (*extra charge payable on-site directly to the locals). Return for lunch (33 km/21 miles, 2 hours). Free time at your leisure. Overnight at a Ger tourist camp in the Gobi Desert.

Full Board

Breakfast. 8:00 AM - Meet with the Samar Magic Tours team and vehicle. Departure for a tourist camp located near the giant sand dunes known as "Khongor" (180 km/112 miles, +3.0h). The sand dunes known as "Khongor" are giant sand dunes in Mongolia, also known as "singing dunes" due to the sound the wind makes as it passes through them. When the wind blows or the sand shifts, they produce a vibrant and spectacular sound, like a song or a roar, although rain can compact the sand and temporarily silence it. They stretch for kilometers, reaching heights of up to 300 meters in some areas, creating a breathtaking desert landscape. The giant dunes of "Khongor" in Mongolia's Gobi Desert are the most important sand dunes in Gobi Gurvan Saikhan National Park. Their area is over 900 square kilometers (559.23 square miles). We will visit a nomadic family with Bactrian camel breeding farms. We'll enjoy a one-hour excursion on Bactrian camels. We'll walk across the dunes and have the opportunity to climb to the highest peak, where we can observe a magnificent landscape of sand dunes and appreciate the contrast of the Gobi Desert. The climb is challenging, but the panoramic views from the summit at sunrise or sunset are unforgettable, filled with peace and beauty. Overnight stay in a traditional ger camp located near the giant sand dunes known as "Khongor."

Full Board

Part of the Genghis Khan Sculpture Complex, this 40-meter-high equestrian statue of Genghis Khan stands on the banks of the Tuul River. The statue symbolically points east, towards his birthplace. At the base of the sculpture complex is a visitor center, 10 meters high, with 36 columns representing the 36 khans of Genghis Khan's reign. It was designed by sculptor D. Erdenebileg and architect J. Enkhjargal and inaugurated in 2008. Visitors can reach the horse's head through its chest and neck for a panoramic view. We will visit a museum within the complex, featuring exhibits related to the Bronze Age and the Xiongnu archaeological cultures of Mongolia, highlighting everyday utensils such as belt buckles, knives, and sacred animals. A second exhibit focuses on the great Khan period of the 13th and 14th centuries, showcasing ancient tools, metalwork, and some Nestorian crosses and rosaries. Here, you can rent horses and camels with local guides, and you can also have your picture taken with golden eagles and Kazakhs (*extra charge payable on-site directly to the locals). Next, depart for Gorkhi-Terelj National Park (50 km / 31.1 miles, 1 hour), located in the northeast at an altitude of 1,600 meters above sea level. A traditional Mongolian lunch is included in route. The Park features towering Mesozoic granite boulders, mountains, steppes, alpine forests, and striking Mesozoic rock formations such as Turtle Rock. TRAVEL CONDITIONS: MONGOLIA is a country where tourist infrastructure is almost non-existent and still in development. Distances are vast, requiring many hours of travel and involving significant fuel costs. The journey is carried out mostly on dirt and sand tracks. Depending on their condition, travellers may spend many hours on the road. A large part of the Mongolian population is still nomadic, moving from place to place on horseback, camel, or yak, with their Gers and herds. An occasional encounter with one of these families and their way of life is an unforgettable experience. To enjoy the trip, travellers must accept these conditions in advance, let go of preconceived notions about how things "should" be, and remain open to what this country has to offer.

FORCE MAJEURE CONDITIONS: While it is our absolute desire to carry out the trip as detailed in the program, on occasion there may be force majeure circumstances that require modifications. Samar Magic Tours is not legally responsible for those force majeure situations beyond the organization's control that may force changes to the travel program. These reasons and circumstances include possible security risks for travellers, political instability or violence, rebellions or the threat of rebellion, strikes, riots and violent actions, decisions by governments or local authorities, technical or maintenance problems related to transport, changes in flight or road schedules or routes, natural disasters, epidemics, adverse weather conditions, and any other circumstances beyond the control of Samar Magic Tours.

If, due to exceptional circumstances of force majeure, it becomes necessary to cancel the trip, there is no obligation of compensation. I have read and understood the section on Obligations and Responsibility detailed above in the form, as well as the General Information and Special Booking Conditions set out in the tour information materials, and I accept them on behalf of myself and my group. I declare that I am not traveling against any medical advice.

FACT SHEET OF MONGOLIA

Currency: The official currency in Mongolia is the Tugrik or Tugrug (T). It comes in banknotes of 10, 20, 50, 100, 500, 1,000, 5,000, 10,000, and 20,000 Tugrik. It is advisable to bring EUROS or USD and exchange them progressively. Currency exchange can be done at banks and hotels in Ulaanbaatar.

Climate: Known as the land of the blue sky, but its climate is extreme and severe. Siberian winters cover the Gobi Desert with snow until April and keep lakes frozen until May. The rainy season is short, from mid-July to September, with brief and light showers. Nights are cool even in summer.

Approximate temperatures in Mongolia:

Spring:	May	[around 14°C daytime, 6° °C night time. Occasional rain, generally cool.]
Summer:	June-August	[28–30 °C daytime, 18 °C night-time. Mostly dry with occasional rain.]
Autumn:	Sept.	[21–16 °C daytime, 0 °C night-time. Dry and cold.]

Luggage: The lighter the luggage, the better. A soft backpack or travel bag is recommended, plus a small daypack for essentials during the day (camera, skin and lip cream, binoculars, canteen, and flashlight). A raincoat or poncho and a good parka, warm clothes for high places, light cotton clothes, sunglasses, and a cap for midday heat, as well as comfortable footwear, are recommended. Clients are advised to bring binoculars.

Small first-aid kit: mosquito repellent, saline solution, gauze, aspirin, paracetamol.

Electricity: 220V, 50Hz. European round plug.

Clothing: No special requirements regarding dress, just respect local customs.

Photography: The country is one of the most photogenic in the world, with its landscapes, wildlife, culture, and people. Entrance fees to museums, National Parks, and Monasteries are included in the trip according to the program, but photography is not. In many monasteries and temples, photos are not allowed unless you pay the set fee. Always check before taking photos, as notices are written in Cyrillic or Mongolian, often unintelligible for us; once you take a picture, payment is immediate.

Food: The basis of food in Mongolia is meat. Lamb and flour form the base of most meals. The Mongolian diet also includes horse meat. Milk and yogurt have an exquisite though strong flavor. Cow and goat cheese are common. Milk may not be pasteurized, and some dairy products can therefore be unsafe. It should be boiled, and foods should preferably be consumed cooked. This is the health guideline, but in reality, once you stop at a Ger, guests are always invited to enter and offered aromatic airag (fermented mare's milk) and goat, yak, or sheep cheese, all acidic and dry. Refusing would not be polite.

Shopping: Bargaining is not common in Mongolia. Even bargaining, you won't usually pay less than 70% of the asking price. Some shops offer handicrafts, postcards, and clothing. Also available are carpets, leather and fur products, as well as cashmere and camel hair items. Wooden toys, puzzles, and games, along with oil paintings and watercolours. In the capital's stores, European products are available—expensive, especially in the State Department Store and other new shopping centers—which carry almost anything you may want, both Mongolian and foreign.

Precautions: Mongolia is a safe place for tourism; there are no drugs, assaults, or weapons. However, as anywhere in the world, one must be cautious with pickpockets.

It is recommended that upon arrival at the hotel you immediately place in the hotel safe (in the room or at reception): passport, visas, money, documents, valuables, etc., before going out for visits in Ulaanbaatar. Be careful in restaurants, pizzerias, cafés, markets, the central post office, and monasteries, where there are pickpockets.
